SP SKILLS PROVISION

— CHRISTOPHER SLAY · MANAGING DIRECTOR

From Somerset to 19 years powering cross-border technical workforce mobility.

In 2007, Christopher Slay incorporated Skills Provision Limited in Frome, Somerset, recognizing that complex engineering, infrastructure, and industrial operations face crippling talent shortages when restricted to purely domestic labor pools.

Over nearly two decades, Christopher and Co-Director Francesca Bailey transformed Skills Provision into a powerhouse international recruitment engine—marrying stringent technical vetting with end-to-end global mobility, visa compliance, and employer of record (EOR) infrastructure.

By investing over £1.65M in proprietary workforce management platforms and intellectual property, Skills Provision scaled its balance sheet to £1.60M in net assets, deploying skilled specialists across the UK, mainland Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and North America.

Today, whether sourcing high-rise project directors for Riyadh mega-projects, MEP engineers in Boston, or precision shipbuilders in the Netherlands, Christopher continues to prove that borders are no barrier to world-class technical execution.

TO Fahad Al-Husseini

SUBJECT Red Sea Global's High-Rise Projects Director search

Hi Fahad,
I noticed Red Sea Global is expanding its executive delivery leadership with a Projects Director (High-Rise & Mega Infrastructure) appointment in Riyadh.
Skills Provision has delivered cross-border technical search and managed workforce mobility across global labour markets for nearly 20 years, with dedicated operations across the UK, Europe, and the Middle East.
Are you handling this search purely through direct channels, or would confidential access to chartered British and European project directors with verified 50+ storey mega-project track records in the Gulf be valuable to review?
If useful, we could arrange a brief 10-minute introductory call to review candidate availability and international relocation lead times.
Best regards,
Christopher Slay
